Last Friday, Minneapolis' KARE-TV aired a segment showing around 120 protestors at Clear Channel Top 40 KDQB/Minneapolis who were there to air their frustrations over the airing of a parody song played on the Dave Ryan Morning Show on March 22. The song, "30 Hmongs in a House" was a spoof on Eric Clapton's "Tears in Heaven." The song, played on the show, pointed to stereotypes of the Hmong community that joked about Hmong girls getting pregnant early and often and that Hmong families live in crowded homes together. KDWB has apologized and felt some financial pain as a couple advertisers pulled out in protest of the song being played. Now, KDWB Pres./Market Man Mike Crushman, Dave Ryan and Exec. Producer Steve-O released another apology, saying, "We fully support the rights under the First Amendment of individuals to gather together and express their thoughts and opinions. We share a commitment to racial justice. The March 22nd song segment in no way reflects the values and viewpoints of our station or individual KDWB personnel. We recognize that it was inappropriate and have unequivocally apologized. We are reaching out and engaging directly with members of the Hmong community, as well as with other community leaders, to make things right. We believe working collectively in the spirit of civility, compassion and cooperation is the best way to move forward." Ryan's and Steve-O's Facebook pages are filled with comments both pro and con on the song, from members of the Hmong community, and those in the general community, based on The Dave Ryan Show's long history of being known for taking shots at everyone. COMMENT: TV stations are only too happy to provide cameras for protests at radio stations, likely viewing the coverage as a mild poke to a competing medium. Some more cavalier members of radio insist that all is good as long as TV gets their call letters right. But we do openly wonder if the kerfluffel can actually help gain audience for a beleaguered radio station, even in the PPM era? - TK

CBS Radio Pres./CEO, and 2011 Conclave Rockwell Award recipient, Dan Mason came back from the NAB Spring Conference more positive than ever about radio's future. In a memo to staff, Mason said, "We have great over the air assets — I can't say enough about the work you all put out on a daily basis — and if we truly combine that effort with some of the emerging technologies that were on display in Las Vegas there's no stopping where we can take CBS Radio as we all know it today. I know I've sang the praises of digital for quite some time, but never have I been more certain as to what an incredible opportunity we have before us and what the lasting benefits will be for all of us who work at CBS Radio if we are fully committed to this space... If broadcast technology were invented today, it would be viewed as a 'miracle technology.'" He explained, "This miracle technology - a technology that's easy to understand, easy to operate, totally portable and readily accessible - is what we know today as local broadcasting. It's a concept that's been around for decades, and while that may create the perception that we're an 'old' medium, you could argue we've had it right from the beginning." Concluding, Mason added, "On top of this 'local' technology exists thousands of digital applications that can spread our unique content to an even bigger and more engaged audience, allowing us to further connect with our listeners. So not only can we communicate to a mass audience, but we also have the luxury of communicating one-on-one. This is a distinction most of today's new businesses can't replicate which puts us in a much better position long term than you might be thinking today." Mason and Steve Rivers will be receiving their Rockwell Awards on Friday, July 15th at the 36th Learning Conference. To register, visit <http://www.theconclave.com>.

On Saturday, June 11th, the legendary Twin Cities top 40 99-1/2 WLOL will be celebrating the 30th anniversary of the station's launch in 1981 with a special reunion for all staffers. The day will begin with an on-air reunion on Clear Channel's KQQL, as former 'LOL jocks pass the torch of classic hits to KOOL 108. Following the on-air festivities (to be documented by radio's Best Friend ART VUOLO), there will be a party and dinner for all staffers who worked for the station from its birth in 1981 until its sale to Minnesota Public Radio in 1991. If that's you - get more information about the "99-1.2 WLOL Almost Perfect 30 year, 29-1/2 Year Reunion" by contacting the organizers at <mailto:WLOLFM@aol.com>. COMMENT: The Twin Cities were home to one of the classic top 40 radio battles for the decade covered by WLOL. While some of us were caught in its crossfire from time to time, the combat produced some pretty great radio by some pretty talented professionals who are still making big contributions to the industry today. So the nearly poetic irony that this reunion will be aired by the company that is home to WLOL's arch enemy at the time, KDWB, isn't lost on us. - TK

HOW TO SURVIVE THE FUTURE OF BROADCAST

Conclave Webinar!

It's a new brand world for traditional broadcast media. Some believe the entertainment and advertising worlds must converge to survive. Others see ratings and demos giving way to new nonstandard ROI metrics. Both are right. Veteran broadcast manager and Chief Brandwidth Strategist Kipper McGee shares insights on how your radio station(s) can continue to be brilliant at the basics while preparing for continued relevance to current and future media consumers. See how some 'today tweaks' on basic programming tips can give you an untold advantage in keeping your station brand(s) "top of mind". You'll also discover how to be web-wise OR dollar foolish, with tips to improve audience loyalty and revenues from all of your station-branded distribution platforms. The webinar is free, but pre-registration is necessary. Click on <https://www1.gotomeeting.com/register/532235801> to join up! Conclave Webinars are coordinated and hosted by Conclave Board member, Jay Philpott from The Arch/St. Louis.

Reps. Darrell Issa (R-CA) and Anna Eshoo (D-CA) introduced a resolution opposing the requirement that broadcast tuners be included in the manufacture of wireless devices. The resolution is "H. Con. Res. 42." Numerous trade groups have come out against the idea. Last summer, 6 IT and mobile trade groups, including the Consumer Electronics Association and mobile organization CTIA, sent a letter to the Chairman and Ranking members in the House and Senate, where they argued against the proposal to mandate FM chips in all mobile devices. Referring to radio and records, they wrote, "It is simply wrong for two entrenched industries to resolve their differences by agreeing to burden a third industry — which has no relationship to or other interest in the performance royalty dispute — with a costly, ill-considered and unnecessary new mandate. The proposed imposition of an FM chip mandate is not necessary for resolution of the dispute between performance artists and broadcasters." NAB EVP Dennis Wharton added, "NAB would prefer that cell phone carriers voluntarily add radio chips to mobile devices. For public safety reasons alone, it makes perfect sense to enable cell phones with inexpensive radio chips." The NAB is launching a new campaign aimed at educating listeners about the benefits of radio-enabled mobile devices in providing local news, entertainment and emergency lifeline information. The initiative uses on-air and online resource to encourage listeners to seek out cell phone with broadcast radio capability. RadioRocksMyPhone.com has been launched to help listeners learn more about the issue. According to the site, a recent poll found that 73% of cell phone owners said having free, local radio as an option on their cell phone is important to them. "People deserve all available means to stay safe in times of crisis, and radio stations can provide critical lifesaving information even when cellular service is disrupted," said NAB Pres./CEO Gordon Smith. "This campaign will help listeners find radio-enabled mobile devices so they may receive up-to-the-minute emergency information even on the go." The campaign coincides with a letter Smith sent members of Congress today urging them not to support yesterday's announced Creativity and Innovation Resolution. The letter highlights the important role radio stations can play in providing life-saving information during emergencies when cell phone service is unavailable, such as during last weekend's storm that sparked tornadoes in several states. COMMENT: Earlier this week, some record labels came out against the FM plan... which some thought to be a strange group to object to having more outlets for music. Combining the negativity of the music industry with the consumer electronics industry, and now with the apparent non-partison legislation presented by Issa and Eshoo, it becomes clear the NAB and its compatriots could use a few more allies in the fight to include, by mandate, FM chips in mobile devices. Without that bargaining "chip", the whole PRA conflict takes on an entirely different hue. - TK

The FCC has quietly issued a notice in the Federal Register asking for comments on whether the longstanding public file requirements in its rules are "necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Commission" and soliciting ideas on how to "enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information collected...ways to minimize the burden of the collection of information on the respondents, including the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology, and ways to further reduce the information collection burden on small business concerns with fewer than 25 employees." Comments are due June 17th.

Former WVKS/Toledo morning host Andrew "Z" Zepeda was arrested (4.13) by Perrysburg, OH police on a warrant from Defiance Municipal Court, charging him with failure to appear in court there. He didn't show up at an April 8th arraignment on two first-degree misdemeanor charges of failure to permit tax commissioners to examine books, records and papers to determine payroll and failure to withhold or pay tax from employees of the restaurant he ran for a brief time in Defiance, OH. Zepeda was arrested at home, quickly posting a $2k bond, and released. In February, Zepeda pleaded guilty to failure to remit sales tax, theft, and complicity to breaking and entering, but Wood County Common Pleas Judge Alan Mayberry granted his motion for intervention in lieu of conviction. Mr. Zepeda was then ordered to undergo a chemical dependency evaluation and treatment, repay more than $40,000 in back sales tax to the state, and meet other requirements.

Talk Radio Network syndicated host Erich "Mancow" Muller settled his suit with Emmis over his 2006 firing at Alternative WKQX/Chicago. Terms of the settlement weren't disclosed. Muller sued Emmis in 2007 for $6 million over "false and disparaging statements" made by Emmis personnel. Look for Mancow to appear on camera on next Monday's episode of "The Chicago Code," the FOX drama. Muller's voice has previously been heard on the show.

Computer glitch keeps Conclave Tuition Low. Earlier this month, when tuition for the summer Learning Conference was to have risen, our website had a minor meltdown in its flux capacitor and wouldn't allow the price rise for purchases made via paypal or credit card. When it was finally fixed, the Conclave couldn't fairly assess the higher rate to those who came in after our technicians remedied the problem or who purchased via check. SOOO...Conclave tuition remains at $249 through the remainder of April (group tuition, $199 for groups of 3 or more). On May 1st (actually May 2nd...the 1st is a Sunday), the tuition will rise to $349 (group rate, $299). Even with a May 2nd tuition hike, the Conclave STILL offers the best bargain in the industry. Couple registration costs with the unheard of Doubletree Park Place hotel room price of $99 single/double (plus tax), and attending the Summer Learning Conference becomes the most affordable learning weekend in the industry! Click on http://www.theconclave.com/register/clc_register.php to register today!

Former Citadel Active Rocker KXXR/Minneapolis midday host Patrick (now Cooper) joins Entercom Alternative KKDO/Sacramento as APD. Patrick was with 93X for 14 years.

After five years with Steckline Communications, OM/PD Joel Navarro resigned, effective immediately. Navarro oversaw Sports/Talk KGSO-AM, NT KQAM-AM, Mid America Ag Network/Wichita, as well as Country KGYN-AM/Guymon, OK, NT KIUL and KYUL-AM/Garden City-Scott City, KS.

Clear Channel Talk WDTW-AM/Detroit adds a local talk show for mornings. The new show, "First Shift," will be hosted by liberal talker Tony Trupiano and begins May 2.

Condolences to family and friends of South Dakota public broadcasting pioneer Martin P. Busch, who died at his home in Kansas last Friday (4.15). Busch began working in radio at the University of South Dakota's KUSD-AM/Vermillion, SD in 1954, eventually becoming the Executive Director of the state's public broadcasting network and helping launch KUSD-TV, the first public television station in the state. He also developed the statewide public radio network with translators throughout the region, and hosted a radio show, "The Bookshop," from 1956-2001.

The 36th Learning Conference will begin Wednesday evening July 13, 2011 with the 4th annual Women in Media Networking Event, co-presented by American Women in Media. Thursday July 14th kicks off with the 2nd annual Jacobs Media Summer School, concluding with the 8th annual Promotion Summit, presented by PromoSuite. Friday July 15th will be highlighted by Conclave
