(WARNING: The following story is true. A radio company HAS shared profits with its employees. This is not a misprint.) Emmis Communications employees will be receiving bonuses in their next paychecks. Yesterday, CEO Jeff Smulyan emailed the company informing them all full-timers will be receiving a $1,000 bonus and all part-timers $250. He indicated the money was being shared with them "for their loyalty and dedication." Smulyan implied the cash was generated by the sale of Spanish Hits KXOS (Exitos 93.9)/Los Angeles to Grupo Radio Centro for $85.5 million and had also recently retired over $1.5 million in debt. Said Smulyan to his employees, "Emmis is now a smaller, leaner company that can compete with its peers. We have emerged as one of the least leveraged companies in media" and indicated it would stay its course as long as possible. COMMENT: Our industry has had far too many "RIF" stories headline lately. This is a truly refreshing reminder of what ownership is capable of doing, not just for its individual members but for the public it serves. Wanna bet that all Emmis stations are sounding just a little more sprightly and connected in their individual communities today? - TK

A two plus year war between BMI and the Radio Music License Committee (RMLC) has apparently been settled. The entities have finally agreed to fees that would be payable by U.S. commercial radio to publicly perform BMI's catalog of over 7.5 million musical works through 2016. The settlement, which requires Federal Court approval, would bring an end to litigation between the parties. The new BMI license, which runs through December 31, 2016, features a return to a percentage-of-revenue fee structure and addresses the new media platforms in which the radio industry is increasingly engaged. The specifics: 1) A $70.5 million industry fee credit against 2010-2011 industry payments, 2) A 1.7%-of-gross-revenue fee structure (with simplified revenue reporting) for stations on the blanket music format license, less a standard deduction of 12% for revenue derived from terrestrial/analog and HD multicasting broadcasts and a 25% deduction for revenue attributable to new media uses, 3) Retention of the program-period license that benefits many talk-format stations, with a base fee of 0.2958% of gross revenue, less the same deductions noted above; and(finally, 4) Expanded rights coverage to accommodate the industry's developing new media platforms related to Internet websites, smart phones and other wireless devices. BMI SVP/Licensing Michael Steinberg said, "BMI is so proud to represent the world's best songwriters, composers and music publishers and their incredible contributions to the success of American radio. This agreement allows us to move forward without the cost and uncertain outcome of further litigation." In response, RMLC Chairman and Saga Communications head Ed Christian noted, "It is a vote of confidence towards our industry that BMI has agreed to return to the historic percentage-of-revenue fee structure. Once the agreement with BMI is approved by the Court, radio broadcasters will continue to nurture their longstanding relationships with the performing rights organizations. We will work together to solve mutual problems in an ever-changing environment of both radio and intellectual property rights as it relates to authors, composers and publishers."

The Learning Conference

ATTENTION - 2012 LEARNING CONFERENCE ATTENDEES!

Please take the time to complete and return the conference questionnaire sent to you this week. Your opinion will help us build a bigger and better Conclave Learning Conference. Please respond by August 31st! THANK YOU!

Talk Radio Network's Mark Masters has been known to stir it up a bit, and that's just what he's done this week in filing a suit in U.S. federal court for the Central district of California against rival Dial Global. The suit alleges that Dial Global violated anti-trust and monopoly laws, in particular, that the company has gained a monopoly in sales representation of independent spoken word radio that could generate a "second-generation monopoly" over intellectual property rights. The suit cites the "recent destruction of CNN radio" in an election year to be replaced by a "branded news operation, at the election of its sales representatives" as a "canary in a coal mine for independent spoken word syndication in radio." Said Masters, "This is a sad but necessary day for us. But the steps we take today are for the sake of the entire community of independent spoken word syndicators, and independent radio networks who depend on outside sale(s) representation for their very financial survival." He added that his companies (The Original Talk Radio Network, Inc., Talk Radio Network Enterprises, LLC and Talk Radio Network-Fm, Inc.) have been "reluctantly forced to bring this action", and that he hopes that the suit "signals a beginning of the end to active monopoly and anti-competitive actions within radio's independent spoken word syndication markets." Noting that TRN was initially a long-term client of Dial Global's, Masters concludes by saying the suit is necessary "as the community of independent spoken word producers, syndicators and networks of national radio programming cannot afford for a single company to have critical control of the revenue streams which cash flow America's national spoken word radio programming providers." Update: According to RadioInfo.com, the field of defendants to Masters' suit has now expanded to include Excelsior Radio Networks, Triton Radio Networks, Triton Media Group, Oaktree Capital Management, Verge Media Companies, Courtside, LLC, Compass Media Networks, Compass Media Marketing, and WYD Media Management. Individuals named include Spencer Brown, David Landau, and Ken Williams of Dial Global, Ron Hartenbaum of WYD, Peter Kosann of Compass, and Norm Pattiz of Courtside. Yesterday, Dial Global Co-CEO Spencer Brown responded to Master's suit: "Despite the comments in Mr.

Masters' email to the press distributed (Tuesday) in which he announced his company Talk Radio Networks (TRN) is suing Dial Global, at this time, Dial Global has not been served a complaint. We have provided outstanding service to TRN for over ten years and continue to represent several of TRN's programs today. Based on the information contained in the complaint distributed by Mr. Masters to the press, which complaint was filed by a law firm run by Ron Severaid, TRN's own internal legal counsel, we believe the complaint is entirely frivolous. We are confident we will defeat these spurious claims, assuming they are ever heard in a court of law."

The Fargo Forum reports that the city's police are looking for information about a shooting early Sunday morning at Clear Channel radio in downtown Grand Forks. Officers responded to a call at 5:30 a.m. Sunday involving possible gunshots in the area of the 200 block of North Fifth Street, according to police. Witnesses reported that an unidentified male fired several rounds into a 2007 Outlaw RV parked outside Clear Channel and then took off running from the scene. Officers found bullet holes in the RV, which is owned by Clear Channel, and estimated damage at about $1,200. No suspect has been identified.

Multibrand Media International has signed former Conclave Board member Paige Nienaber to an exclusive rights agreement to represent Nienaber's ideas, services, intellectual properties and products outside of the U.S. Nienaber will continue perform his reckless promotional ways domestically with whomever he can convince to do so.

After 5 years at CC's KGOR & The Brew/Omaha, former Conclave Board member Lester St. James has left the building. You'll find him at lesterstjames@gmail.com or (402) 419-8723. COMMENT: If there's a more charismatic, dedicated and resourceful radio pro out there, we have yet to meet them. Lester is as good as they come. Sign him up before someone else does. - TK

Apparently, there's more to the story The TATTLE ran last week, indicating that Clear Channel Media + Entertainment Top 40 WZEE (Z104)/Madison morning duo Connie & Curtis, were being pulled from sister Top 40 WRNW (Radio Now)/Milwaukee. Now, the duo's Madison presence will end as of today (8/30). Effective Friday, Elvis Duran's Premium Choice show will occupy mornings in both cities. BUT the decision to exit Z104 belonged entirely to Connie & Curtis. Says CCM+E/Milwaukee-Madison VP/Market Mgr. Jeff Tyler, "Connie And Curtis have continued the tradition of successful morning shows on Z104. Their show continued to dominate the ratings and they were loved by their fans in Madison. After the change was made in Milwaukee both Connie and partner Curtis decided, and informed the company they did not want to continue to broadcast back to their fans on Z104 and told management they felt the time was right for them to move on. We worked to convince them to stay with Z104 but they said their minds were made up. We wish them only the best as they seek a new challenge and opportunity and they will forever be part of the history and legacy of Z104 in Madison." And now you know, the rest of the story...

The Conclave's 2012 Rockwell Award Recipient, Fred Jacobs, found himself in the middle of a minor controversy this week as his blog took a college to task. Here's the story in Fred's words – "Every year Beloit College (Beloit, WI) puts together a compelling list that is often a reality check for those of us north of 40 years-old. Taking a look at their incoming freshmen (The Class of 2016), their team creates a list of things these young people – born in 1994 – think, believe, and experience – or haven't experienced. This is often a great tool, especially for radio stations (and other media brands) that appeal to 18-24 year-olds because it can be very helpful in overall messaging, communication, prep, promo creation, and social media connectivity. The list is frequently funny, clever, and loaded with items that make you think (mostly about how old you are). This year, there is no shortage of fun "mindset" items on the Beloit list. Here are a few that made me smile: Robert DeNiro is thought of as Greg Focker's long-suffering father-in-law, not as Vito Corleone or Jimmy Conway. They have never seen an airplane "ticket." There has always been football in Jacksonville but never in Los Angeles. And a Detroit favorite: Little Caesar has always been proclaiming 'Pizza Pizza.' But then Fred gets a little testy after he reads the college's 15th 'Mindset' item: "Having grown up with MP3s and iPods, they never listen to music on the car radio and really have no use for radio at all." Says Fred, " I am a fan of radio, but certainly not an apologist. When I believe the industry is doing something lame, I point it out. When I feel that opportunities are going untapped, it is often a hot topic in this space. But this is a cheap shot, undeserved, and factually incorrect...The fact is, nearly 90% of all 12-24s in America listen to broadcast radio every week. That's documented by Arbitron's national numbers. More than 22 million 12-17 year-olds listen to radio every week, while nearly 27 million 18-24s – the 'college years' demographic – are still tuning in AM/FM radio even though they have iPods, smartphones, and tablets available to them." But before he could totally take the study and its authors to task, the school revised #15: "While still fans of music on radio, they often listen to it on their laptops or replace it with music downloaded onto their MP3s and iPods." That made things a bit better, but Fred still took issue with "the tone and substance" of the inclusion. Fred's parting shot? "So to the geniuses behind the Mindset List, continue to have fun with us and your class of incoming freshmen. But when the world laughs with you and raises its collective eyebrows at some of your factoids, you have an obligation to get it right." So, there!! COMMENT: A couple of years ago, I taught a class at McNally-Smith College in St. Paul. As part of a homework assignment, I asked my students to listen to the radio and file a report on the differences of a few stations I asked them to monitor. When it came time to turn in the homework, I was shocked to learn that none of the dozen or so students had a radio in their home or apartment they could listen to, and a couple spent cold nights in their cars...the only place they could find a radio. What all this means is simply this: the Beloit study and Fred's response notwithstanding, the industry has much more it needs to do to reach our 18-24's like it once did in the past. But evidence indicates, as this story illustrates, it may already be too late. - TK
